2. Why study this course, including course aims and objectives

Istituto Marangoni has more than 80 years experience in training highly skilled future fashion professionals. During this time we have built outstanding international networks within the fashion and design industries and have expanded to comprise 11 schools in 9 prime city locations, across 4 continents. We provide an outstanding, internationally-recognised educational experience that responds to the evolving demands and requirements of tomorrow's industry professionals.

Our ethos as a school embraces the creative synergies that evolve constantly between the refined professionalism of the Italian luxury sector, the rebellious and provocative innovation of the London cultural scene, and the nuanced global perspectives offered by our international student and tutor body.

Contemporary fashion stylists and creative directors understand the importance of the fashion image and digital media to create a compelling story and atmosphere, together with the growing connections between still and moving image to express fashion and luxury. This fifteen-month postgraduate level Fashion Styling, Creative Direction and Digital Content programme supports participants in becoming visual image experts with a holistic skills set in styling, image and film, as well as printed and digital media. Students will develop these skills while working on innovative, forward-looking projects for fashion brands for both physical and digital realms. Through in-depth creative, cultural and contextual research, idea generation and technical experimentation, with recognition of contemporary professional standards and future imperatives, this programme looks at how to reflect the soul, identity and values of a fashion brand while students explore and refine their own unique aesthetic personality as a creative director of the fashion image.

Students will learn about the rapidly evolving landscape of fashion styling and creative direction and the exciting ways that the fashion image, film and digital media can enhance storytelling and communication strategies to develop dynamic content for the fashion industry of the future. Focusing on the visual language of communication, participants approach the many different aspects of fashion styling, learning how to persuade, inspire and create an emotional response.

Key themes of the course:

- Fashion styling, visual communication and creative techniques;
- Creative research, traditional and new media, critical perspectives;
- Media and image values, semiotics;
- Storytelling techniques, photography and moving image;
- Visual culture, personal creative identity.

Through a series of multidisciplinary units, students will acquire the technical skills and theoretical knowledge needed to create editorial fashion shoots and commercial creative projects from initial concept, through final delivery – including analysis of current and future trends and the historical and contemporary context of fashion. During the course participants will also apply technical and cultural notions to in-studio projects, learning how to develop and plan in detail every area of the technical and creative process, from lighting to composition, in order to produce the theme of creative proposal developed to answer brand image or assigned client brief.

This programme is designed for students from a styling, fashion, design or a business background, but will consider applicants from other relevant disciplines and prior experiences who are interested in developing a personal visual language, a set of creative skills and body of work that can represent their aesthetic and personal approach to the industry, opening a wide range of professional possibilities. The units and tasks within this programme will require a high degree of critical thinking, analytical and strategic mindsets, initiative and creativity, leading to professionalism and independent working approaches essential to any creative profile suitable for the contemporary market of fashion and design.

This programme will offer students the ability to develop a personal creative identity and reflect on their own skills and approaches to storytelling and communication, through industry briefs and projects designed to experiment with creative techniques and mindsets. Alongside technical and aesthetic aspects of photography and film, that incorporate lighting, composition, editing and special characteristics of films and paper, the course looks at digital strategy and networking, bringing observation and communication abilities together with artistic and creative expression.

Career progression:

- Stylists, Creative directors;
- Art directions and visual curators;
- Visual researcher and Fashion critic;
- Photography, Image making, Traditional and New Media Storytelling;
- Magazine editors;
- Academic progression - PhD, MPhil.

Course aim:

To investigate the role of Fashion Styling and Creative Direction as key practices that define the contemporary fashion and design industry, whilst experimenting with photographic and moving image techniques to develop a personal creative identity and professionalism.

Course objectives:

- Develop a critical awareness of the context of contemporary fashion and design, evaluating the value of image making and storytelling.
- Research and analyse historic and emerging social, cultural and personal paradigms of luxury in relation to fashion and the fashion product.
- Critically evaluate traditional and new media as methods of communication and culture progression.
- Articulate complex ideas creatively, effectively communicating them to specialist and non-specialist audiences in an appropriate format, answering editorial and commercial briefs.
- Work collaboratively and independently across multidisciplinary projects to produce written, verbal, multimedia and physical artefacts.
- Critically reflect upon your own creative practices, and its interconnection of that to other, in process of continual personal and professional development.

Units

Your course is composed of a number of units that each have a credit value. On successfully passing each of these units, you will gain credits that count towards the total needed for your degree.

One credit equates to 10 notional hours, which is the average time a student will take to achieve the specified learning outcomes. So if a unit is worth 10 credits, then you would expect to spend 100 hours studying this. These will not all be 'taught' hours. You will receive guidance and instruction through lectures, seminars, etc., but you will also need to engage in self-study. A percentage breakdown of teaching contact hours and self-study required on this course is indicated in Section 6.

Term 1: Provides a conceptual framework that enables students to make strong links between theory and practice. (group and individual)

Unit: Style Research, mandatory, assessed end of Term 1.

Unit: Fashion and Culture, mandatory, assessed end of Term 1.

Terms 1 & 2: Theory, field trips and case studies in term 1, application in Term 2.

Unit: Contextual & Cultural Studies - a unit comprising 3 elective subjects: Alternative Business Models, High Technology, Neocraft. This is a common, interdisciplinary unit across other MA programmes, in Terms 1 and 2, assessed at the end of Term 2.

Term 2: Expands on practical skills answering a creative industry brief (individual).

Unit: Fashion Styling and Creative Direction, mandatory, assessed at end of Term 2.

Terms 2 & 3: Research theory that underpins other units on the MA programme, but most specifically the Dissertation unit.

Unit: Research Methods - a common unit with other MA programmes, mandatory, assessed at the end of Term 3.

Term 3: Research-led personal development and production of a final body of work and portfolio (individual).

Unit: Creative Direction and Identity, mandatory, assessed at the end of Term 3.

Term 4: Testing emerging theory and practice through work-based learning or project-based work. (individual)

Unit: Professional Development, mandatory, assessed at the end of Term 4.

Unit: Dissertation, mandatory, assessed at the end of Term 5.

The programme will be supported by a range of relevant trips and practical activities, guest speakers and workshops.

- Class times are scheduled between 08.30-20.00, Monday to Friday, normally spread over 3 days during the week. There may be some exceptions to this, when opportunities arise to add value to the student learning experience.
- Assessment periods are normally 2 weeks after the end of each term.
- Placements at IML are normally scheduled to take place in term 3, at IM London School, for the Professional Development unit.

This is a guide to the academic opportunities available to help you achieve the overall aims and objectives of the course and the intended learning outcomes in Section 5. It is also a guide to the assessment methods used to test your achievement of the intended learning outcomes. In order to meet the full intended learning outcomes of the course, you will be expected to study independently, participate in class discussions, ask for support in academic skills if required and engage with your personal tutors.

The learning and teaching strategy adopted for this course relates to the Regent's Hallmark Pedagogy as well as internal IM Learning and Teaching Strategy which comprises the below areas:

- A personalised student experience
- Interactive and inclusive learning
- Assessment for learning
- Focus on student skills and attributes
- Developing cultural agility, flexibility and graduates' ability to compete strongly in the global labour market
- Professional development for staff

The MA Fashion Styling, Creative Direction & Digital Content programme combines theoretical approaches with practical investigations through a constant dialogue between theory and practice as students develop, extend and define their own distinct identities as the stylists and creative directors of the future. Taught by a dynamic team of active industry professionals (including stylists, photographers, art directors, magazine editors and filmmakers) and by experienced senior lecturers, lectures, workshops and practice-focused activities are designed to enhance your capability to build and express their personal creative vision, and a scalable set of transferable skills that are reflective of academic and industry standards. Units are designed to mirror a variety of industry practices as you work on live projects and are supported with input by guest speakers from industry, as well as emerging creative talents.

In Term 1, students will participate in two units that define the theoretical and practical basis of the programme, raising the students' knowledge to industry levels through critical and cultural research in the field of fashion, whilst experimentation through idea development within editorial executions. In Fashion and Culture, lectures and seminars will explore the most thorough aspects of Fashion as a social phenomenon and culture manifestation, across the discussion of ethical, socio-economic, and critical perspectives.

In Style Research, the connection between analysis, theory and creative practice is developed through lectures and skill-focused tutorials aiming at challenging the students on their conceptual thinking, style and creative expression, whilst enhancing their practical skills on photography and video making, knowledge of digital softwares and overall creative direction techniques.

Across Term 1 and 2, students from all MA programmes at IM will also participate in the Contextual and Cultural Studies, a cross-disciplinary unit designed to expand the knowledge of the cohorts through a series of lectures, workshops and tutorials focused on three macro-topics of research, High Technology, Alternative Business Models and Neocraft.

In Term 2, students will build upon the knowledge and skills gained in Term 1, exploring more commercial, industry-based and brief driven projects, raising the complexity of their tasks through the production of a multifaceted creative body of work. In Fashion Styling and Creative Direction, the practices such as creative and art direction, branding, video making, graphic design and communication strategy are dissected through lectures and practice-focused seminars, revolving around the delivery of an assigned industry brief.

They will also study Research Methods in terms 2 and 3, with lectures and seminars on research theory in term 2 and then 1-1 tutorials and group tutorials in term 3 as they develop and refine the research proposals for their dissertation projects (beginning in term 5).

In Term 3, the teaching and learning focus shifts finally to the personal and individual values, style and aesthetic of each student, aiming at developing an industry-ready body of work, reflecting the creative growth developed through the different previous terms. Here, identity, personal artistic directions and preparation about the possible roles each student might embrace in the industry, are explored through individual practical tutorials, lectures, guest talks and visits that can further inspire the cohort to originally develop their personal style and portfolio.

In Term 4, in the Professional Practice unit, students have the option of spending time in industry, where they can gain valuable experience that may confront or shape their evolving ideas about the futures of fashion amidst the realities and challenges of the existing incumbents. They have an alternative option – perhaps of particular value to those with industry experience already – of joining an Istituto Marangoni project to work with tutors and peers on a new or ongoing project.

In term 5, students will work on their Dissertation projects.

Breakdown of teaching methods by percentage per level

The following breakdown is a guide to how much time you will spend doing each teaching and learning method. The exact amount of time spent in taught/practical lessons or self-study will depend on the elective unit that you take.

- 'Taught' learning typically refers to timetabled sessions led by a member of academic staff, such as lectures, seminars and tutorials
- 'Practical' sessions are also timetabled and led by an academic member of staff, but are focused on learning through experience, e.g. role plays, simulations, field trips, studio or laboratory work

'Self-Study' is time dedicated to self-directed learning that is guided by your own requirements to further your studies and complete assignments. This could include preparation for class, background reading, research and preparation for assessments, and writing.

Level 7

Taught	10%
Practical	15%
Self-Study	75%

Course management and teaching staff

The course is managed by the Programme Leader for MA Fashion Styling, Creative Direction and Digital Content, supported by Unit Leaders. Tutors are, in general, educated to master's or doctoral level. Exceptions are where particular specialist skills are required and are covered by fractional posts or visiting lecturers. In addition, most of our staff hold a Fellowship of Higher Education Academy (HEA) from Fellow to Principal Fellow. We also encourage our teaching staff to undertake the Postgraduate Certificate in Higher Education.

Many of the tutor team are engaged in cutting edge work in industry and/or research in the subjects that they teach and engage in continuous professional development by attending and participating in conferences, exhibiting work and producing publications.

Guest speakers, including industry practitioners, deliver guest lectures throughout the programme.

Assessment strategy and methods

There is a combination of formative and summative assessments. Formative activities are used for developmental purposes and are designed to help you learn more effectively by giving you feedback on your progress and on how it can be improved and/or maintained. They do not contribute to the award mark.

Summative assessments are used to determine your success in meeting the intended learning outcomes of a unit and do contribute to the award.

15. Methods for evaluating and improving the quality and standards of teaching and learning

Continuous monitoring and evaluation of programmes is an essential part of Istituto Marangoni London's quality assurance framework enabling discussion and consideration regarding potential enhancement of learning opportunities within specific programmes, resulting in a higher quality student academic experience. The academic team is encouraged to evaluate the programmes and propose content, teaching delivery or assessment related changes for reasons such as quality improvement, in response to feedback from students, academic faculty or subject External Examiners, to ensure currency of programmes, annual monitoring and data outcomes and/or alignment with any regulatory body requirements or changes.

Below are examples of continuous programme management and quality arrangements:

- Course validation or revalidation: the programme approval is based on a process of internal and external peer review and ensures alignment against all relevant UK external reference points as well as internal and external policies and procedures.
- Periodic reviews: the programme re-approval process is based on a process of critical reflection of the programme's operation and continued relevance with internal and external peer review and student feedback being integrated to the process. It also ensures continued alignment against all relevant UK external reference points, internal and external regulations etc.
- Annual programme / unit modifications: the academic team is encouraged to evaluate the programmes and propose content, teaching delivery or assessment related changes for reasons such as quality improvement in response to feedback from students, tutors or subject External Examiners to ensure currency of programmes, annual monitoring and data outcomes and/or alignment with any regulatory body requirements or changes.
- Programme Continuous Improvement Plans: the process provides an important source of information for programme teams on the operation of the programmes as these documents provide a complete record of enrolment and Assessment Board related information, progress of actions, good practice identified, student and External Examiner feedback, complaints overview etc.
- Unit performance reports: the purpose of those reports is to continue and enhance the quality of units and act upon any concerns in a timely manner.
- Student engagement and feedback: student participation in quality assurance and enhancement processes helps to improve the educational experience of students, benefiting the wider student body, the Higher Education sector as well as engagement with collaborative partners within industry. Student engagement contributes to quality assurance and enhancement processes by effectively capturing the student voice, acting upon student feedback, student academic engagement as well as their engagement with the School. Students have an opportunity to provide ongoing information and formal feedback as part of their studies. The ways of providing feedback include (but not limited to): student voice and NPS surveys, National Student Survey, industry engagement, monthly events, School forums, Student Representative meetings, formal School Boards and Committees, academic related activities.
- Staff Development: Academic staff are supported in further developing their teaching skills and in acquiring teaching qualifications:
LTA, Learning Teaching Assessment
FHEA, Fellowship
SFHEA, Senior Fellowship
PgCert
Istituto Marangoni London also financially supports, partly or fully, costs for academics to attend conferences and for training that can benefit both the staff and the institution. The Director of Education, with the support of the QA and HR teams, selects on a yearly basis the academic staff to whom professional development will be offered.

LTA programme

This programme provides participants with the opportunity to develop their practice through critical reflection and contextual debates informed by relevant theories and perspectives. Participants will consider their own teaching practice in the context of the wider HE landscape from both the teacher and learner perspectives. The assessment strategy for this programme requires an observation of practice, and participants will be expected to demonstrate that they can plan, deliver, evaluate and reflect on learning episodes using this process to inform planning for their CPD.

This programme is designed to offer participants maximum flexibility and the opportunity to personalise their own learning and practise through engagement with online learning resources. These resources will consist of key elements for the unit – e.g. principles of effective session planning, inclusive practice, assessment and curriculum design all linked to relevant learning and teaching theory. The unit focuses on the enhancement of the student experience and the development of critical reflective practice with a particular emphasis on observations of practice.

Throughout the programme participants consider how they can demonstrate the application of:

- underpinning theories and models of teaching and learning and reflective practice;
- methods to ensure inclusive teaching and learning strategies;
- techniques for session planning within constructively aligned teaching learning and assessment;
- models of reflective practice;
- theory applied to practice;
- engagement with the disciplinary and contextual drivers and strategies appropriate to their practice;
- quality measurement and enhancement mechanisms.
