The educational aims are:

- to develop flexible approaches to programme delivery and student support, which reflect the needs and expectations of our learners;
- to provide a supportive and inclusive learning environment which will enable success for all learners;
- to encourage the development of students' intellectual abilities, creativity, independence, critical self-awareness, imagination and skills that will enhance global employment opportunities on completion from all courses;
- to establish a culture of constant improvement in learning, teaching and assessment that is anticipatory, enabling, supportive, rewarding and fully aligned with the Institutions vision and strategic objectives;
- to provide a learning experience that is informed by research, scholarship, reflective practice and engagement with fashion and design industry and the professions.

3. Course Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of the Fashion Image & Styling short course, students will be able to:

- understand the fashion stylists job;
- understand and identify fashion trends and fashion decades;
- conduct an iconographical research and plan a photo shooting;
- professionally present their photo shooting using retouching and editing.

4. Teaching/Learning and Assessment StrategyCurriculum:

The course gives participants the opportunity to understand the job of the fashion stylist and its phases of planning, organising and styling a photo shooting.

Week 1: participants begin to study and consider the fashion styles of the 20th century (from 1900 to 1930) together with an analysis of the basics of a wardrobe. They also study and examine the current and the future trends. Furthermore, some visits are organised to give them the opportunity to discover the city and its style; seminars give participants the opportunity to enrich their learning experience.

Week 2: participants explore the fashion styles of the 20th century (from 1940 to 1990). They study the fundamentals of personal shopping and analyse the different body typologies. Participants have the chance to understand the concepts behind a photo shooting (narrative, iconographic research and shoot planning) and start to work on their idea in order to plan and carry out their shoot during the last week.

Week 3: participants create a photo shooting applying all the knowledge and skills received during the first two weeks. They build a professional portfolio by retouching and editing the photos and they present it to tutors.

Students have the opportunity to demonstrate their achievement of the intended learning outcomes through a variety of tests appropriate to their field of study.

Assessment:Formative Assessments:

This consists in a daily interaction with the tutors that through feedback help the trainees to adopt a critical appraisal of their own learning experience, and helps them assess their own performance in relation to the learning outcomes set for each element of study.

Summative Assessments:

These are formal assessments and are a means of gauging trainee learning, at a particular point in time, relative to established marking criteria (Learning Outcomes). Summative assessments can occur during as well as at the end of each unit on specific evidence of trainee work, examples as follows:

Portfolio Assessment > is used to assess a variety of projects that have been developed throughout the unit and contained within a single folder or portfolio. Portfolio assessment could take a variety of formats depending on the subject and stipulated by the tutor.

Practical and class-based projects > allow students to apply their theoretical understanding of a specific subject area.

Written Reports > are required in some study areas and these will in some cases be a response to industry briefs, allowing students to reflect real industry requirements and to present work to industry standards through report writing.

Presentations > are used in some subjects to allow students to develop their creative, professional communication and presentation skills, formalising their arguments in a critical manner. When giving presentations students are actively encouraged to embrace new technologies and media in an innovative way where appropriate.
