

Sergio Nava

role

Programme Leader Visual Design

Istituto Marangoni School of Design Milano

Sergio Nava is an Italian architect and designer. Graduated in Architecture at Politecnico di Milano and PG Cert in learning and teaching in HE at Manchester Metropolitan University, he has a long standing experience as a lecturer in design universities both in Italy and internationally. At the present day, he is Program Leader of the Visual Design Department at the School of Design, Istituto Marangoni, Milan, Italy.

He has been working in the design and communication field for over 20 years. In 2007 he created the design brand Kreaton by which he won several international awards. His works have been published in leading design magazines worldwide. He had the pleasure to collaborate with brands like Versace, Adidas, Google, L'Oréal and FCA.